Adopt an animal at London Zoo

The people who work for the Zoological Society of London keep and look after endangered animals. They do research and study animals in the wild. They try to save species which are in danger of disappearing. And we can help! Of course, we can't all work at the zoo, but we can adopt one of the London Zoo's many animals, and our donation will help animals all over the world.

There are so many animals to choose from! Here are some ideas……

*How about protecting the tigers? Their jungle habitat is in danger.

*Do you like gorillas? They eat 12-18 kilos of food every day.

*Do you love lizards? The Komodo Dragon is the biggest lizard of all.

*How about a rhino? There are five different species in the world.

There are lots of other kinds of animals too – some live in the water, some live in forests or deserts and others spend most of their lives in the air!

Of course, you can't take the animal home with you. The animals are happy at the zoo and the zoo keepers take care of them very well. But you can get a magazine with lots of photos and news about the animal you adopted from the zoo every month. The best thing is, you can go to the zoo to visit your animal as often as you want - for free!

SECTION III - WRITING (20p)

Penfriends wanted!

This is an email from your English penfriend.

Hi! My name is Jack. I'm twelve. I'm from the UK. I am tall and slim. I've got short brown hair and green eyes. My family is not very big. My father, George, is a vet and my mother, Helen, is a nurse. I also have a brother, Tim, who is older than me. We live in a big house. We have a dog, too. Its name is Spot.

My favourite school subject is Geography. I like to read about countries and people. I like playing the guitar and swimming. I don't like playing baseball and I really hate shopping. It's boring! What do you like doing? Email me at jack09@quickmail.com.

Write back to your penfriend (8-10 lines). Don't forget to mention:

▪How old you are;

▪What your family is like;

▪Where you live;

▪What your favourite school subjects are;

▪What activities you like / don't like doing in your free time;
